Friday Night Live (FNL) Offers Paid Internship Opportunities for Local Youth

Santa Cruz County Friday Night Live (FNL) invites youth ages 11-20 who are interested in public health, youth advocacy, and promoting healthy lifestyles in their community to apply for a paid internship with the County of Santa Cruz.

Participating in the internship program is a great way to build leadership skills, make friends, and learn how to use your voice to make positive changes in the community. Youth can earn between $50 to $600 a month. Meetings are held in person at your local school or virtually Wednesdays and Thursdays from 4-5pm for the county wide youth policy meetings.

To apply for the internship, check out the Santa Cruz County FNL social media pages, or use the link: <https://tinyurl.com/SCFNLPIINTERN>

“Friday Night Live is a youth adult partnership that provides a platform for youth to make positive change in our community, creates worthwhile relationships with adults and peers, as well as builds impactful leadership skills for your future!” – Issa Bunch, FNL Youth Intern

Examples of past FNL projects include positive social norms posters, social media campaigns, video and radio PSA, educational flyers, the responsible alcohol merchant awards (RAMA), and community outreach to help prevent youth access to alcohol tobacco and other substances.
